New Stage Safety Improvements

1. Downstage edge warning lines. The yellow line indicates a warning to any employee working on the stage that they are approaching the downstage edge. The yellow line is painted six feet from the edge of the stage and provides a visual indicator that employees are approaching a fall hazard. The white line has been painted to highlight the edge of the stage.

2. Additional warning indicators/temporary barrier. A warning line rope will be installed six feet from the downstage edge during load-in and load-out operations. The warning line is an additional visual indicator that employees are approaching a fall hazard at the downstage edge. The warning line system consists of a rope, warning flags, and high visibility cones along the downstage edge.
3. Designated spotters. When work must be performed at the downstage edge past the yellow line, a designated spotter will be responsible for assisting employees in safely working in the area of the fall hazard.
